Timavo, the river that brings people together

The Timavo, a river that brings together communities, originates in the karst mountains of Croatia, tranquil and pristine, and embarks on its journey through the earth's contours.

He vanishes into the caves of San Canziano, engulfed by the enigma of the karst, only to reappear after an extensive journey through the dark core of the earth, right here in Duino.

A river that recognizes no borders, flowing through the shadows and then emerging into the light, reappearing grandly in Duino, where it converges with the sea.

It is the tale of a water that transforms into legend, of a profound connection between land, people, and memory.
